

Turning a dream into reality

The dream of Red River Theatres began with the closing of Concord's two independent theaters in the mid-1990s.

Community members expressed the need for cinema that offered an alternative to the standard fare available at the region's several multi-screen movieplexes.

Many volunteers joined the effort and founding volunteers named the organization after RED RIVER, a 1948 classic Western film starring John Wayne, in which the lead characters undertake an epic, nearly impossible, but ultimately successful, journey. The name proved a worthy inspiration, and in the fall of 2007, after seven years of planning and dreaming, Red River Theatres opened its doors.

A place for film in the community

In its first year, Red River Theatres' three screens presented over 150 films, including documentaries, short films, independent films, classics, and foreign language features. Community Conversations are regularly organized around films that deserve post-film analysis by audience members and guest speakers. Local filmmakers have a venue in which to present their work, film festivals have found a home, and the art of filmmaking is encouraged.

that otherwise would not have played in the Concord area. Red River was chosen to host one of only 53 official Oscar Night® America parties in the U.S. in 2009 - a New Hampshire fist - offering a behind-the-scenes glimpse into the film industry's most prestigious event.

Red River's two large theaters feature rocker-style, stadium seating and are equipped with 35mm projection equipment and Dolby surround sound. The Screening Room, with a 48-seat capacity and high-end DVD equipment, serves NH filmmakers and is available to be rented for meetings and receptions. Red River Theatres presents the art of cinema in its most compelling and meaningful form and involves the Capitol region in the kinds of thoughtful discussion that great film stimulates. We welcome your role in this mission as viewer, participant, donor and member.
